Interpretation Services

Understanding what medical professionals say is hard enough in English, but it can be downright confusing in a second language. Fortunately, YVMC has Erica and Roddy to help patients make sense of it all. They provide face-to-face Spanish interpretation in addition to the 180 languages offered through telephonic interpretation.

Erica and Roddy say, "A lot of patients may be able to go to the grocery store, restaurants or talk to their child's teacher at school, but health care technology isn't something most people use every day. We provide a necessary bridge for overcoming barriers to health care.

"We grew up in Steamboat. We love this place. This community inspired us to venture far and wide, learn languages and then come back and share those gifts from the rest of the world."
