Amanda Pierson
Radiology scheduler

A friendly presence on the phone and in person, Amanda may help up to 50 people in a typical day. At all times, she is aware of their concern and desire to get medical answers quickly.

Scheduling a diagnostic imaging exam is not always simple. For some tests, Amanda obtains physician orders, then finds a time when the room, radiologist, nurse, radiologic technologist, specialist physicians and the patient are simultaneously available.

Amanda says, "In other hospitals there may be a two-week wait for an MRI exam, but people are amazed and grateful when we can provide rapid service, sometimes on the same day. I go out of my way to make things happen for our patients, because I feel I'm their voice."
