... personalized care

One of the secrets to being a good night-shift nurse is to listen. That's how Jacquie has been able to connect with her patients and care for them on a personal level. She calls it having presence in the moment.

Jacquie says, "We are meeting patients when they are at their most vulnerable. They have physical and emotional needs, and they may be in pain or recovering from surgery. We're here to improve their lives and encourage them in their recovery.

"We have a great team on nights, with excellent nurses. I love my job, knowing I can make a difference by making my patients feel comfortable and well-cared-for during their stay. It's a very rewarding career."
