

Extraordinary People

... personalized care

Many companies and employees in Northwest Colorado rely on Meg and YampaWorks for everything from pre-employment screenings to education about job safety and medical issues.

The area's only practicing certified occupational health nurse, Meg is a case manager for workers' injuries, coordinating medical care for client companies and insurance carriers. As YVMC's employee health nurse, she ensures that hospital staff meet regulatory requirements.

Meg says, "I enjoy having an opportunity to help people. For example, when I conduct a pulmonary function test, I can show someone concrete evidence that quitting smoking can have a positive impact on their health."
